Six of Diamonds:

Monetary Accountability

Characteristics: Like all Sixes, during their lives, they receive exactly what they give to others. In their past-life there might have been huge financial losses or gains. Accounts might need to be settled. They seem to fall into two types. To remain debt free, there are those who go out of their way. But some must learn to be independent and, unfortunately, there are those who are not responsible when it comes to money. In some cases, they are owed. The suit of Diamonds maintains a strong financial relationship. The Six signifies responsibility and karma. Six of Diamonds people are very aware of debt and financial issues. A kind of suspicion about being in debt is the unusual characteristic often showing itself. So they will not have to think about it later. For example, a Six of Diamonds might pay their bills early. Six of Diamonds males and females share this common quality. It is sure that the Six of Diamonds will get exactly what they deserve and it does not matter what their situation. They may need to push them-selves into the fray once in a while because they are a bit down on occasions. They can achieve almost anything they want once motivated. Both in work and action they are protected. On a more significant level, they may be here to understand values in a deeper way and to assist others. They will always be content if intuition guides them from deep inside, regardless of the situation in their lives. They will not be concerned about finances if they have found their special purpose in life. Excellent teachers are often Six of Diamonds. An awareness of the law is also present. They can be trusted with great responsibility and are generous. They are capable of giving informed personal choices, clear knowledge of superior values and the ability to do more.

Relationships: There is a person who is struggling to meet their need for affection beneath the serious external part of the Six of Diamonds. There can be an impact on their personal relationships because they often fear abandonment. They can have a difficult time understanding that and repeated failures that constitute their love life result until that is dealt with directly. Their approach to love is highly cerebral. They need to work at being not only with others but with themselves as well. While avoiding their real feelings they should not slip into fooling themselves. A transformation of the life of the Six of Diamonds karmic pattern often means one breakup of a significant relationship and teaches a lesson to them about themselves. There is a fear of disappointment for some, but others think they can orchestrate everything. First they have to learn to give themselves the love they seek from others. They need to make better determinations of their relationship issues stemming from frankness about their own emotions, which can give them the knowledge.

Personality Connections: Six of Diamond women are a large challenge for Spade men and create issues for them. Other Diamonds are attractive to both genders, although the women may also be interested in Heart men.

Confrontations: Emotionally, a highly intense drive for achievement can be the caused by this. There is a need to be appreciated and liked that is almost impossible to fill. Therefore, the Six of Diamonds is often introverted on a personal level and quite touchy. They seem content and well-adjusted on the outside. Sixes avoid seeming engaged with the world around them or even emotional. A huge drive for being successful is found in such people and they can operate under high-powered pressure even at the professional level. Many Sixes find sports as an outlet and that includes the Six of Diamonds. Joe Louis, Joe Montana, Fred Couples, Jack Nicklaus and O.J. Simpson are all famous sports figures that are Six of Diamonds. Obviously, their sports ability has achieved fame for them. Deep emotional wounds in Six of Diamonds cards are frequently the case for making them successful individuals. Their kind exterior hides the internal wounds. Their life is in the Saturn position so we can see this in their lives.
