Jack of Spades: Headliner

Characteristics: The Jack of Spades have a talent for doing anything involving the mind and it is certain they are strong in creative endeavors. Whether this strength will be utilized in a knowledgeable and patient way without deception is the question. Falling to the bottom side of Jack of Spades is a possibility if they are not cautious. Their status can either take them in the direction of goodness and value, or fool them and take a downward spiral toward lies and deception. This card has an easier Life Path than most of the deck in material terms and a lot simply comes easily for them. A lot of their difficulties, however, can originate here. Individuals may not appreciate the significance of what they possess if life is too easy. There is a broad range of things about a Jack of Spades ranging from a visionary, to a spiritual guide or a criminal. A combination of creativity and over supply of mental power is the cause of this. It has been referred to as Thief's Card even while representing a spiritual novice. It is up to the individual to channel their superb creativity with dignity and knowledge because most Jack of Spades have some of both of these characteristics in them. They lose their way and sometimes believe the falsehoods they invent to avoid a difficult life. These individual are capable of being successful artists, actors and actresses consistently, and do well with others. In spite of the fact that they can make enough themselves, frequently they inherit money. They usually have a successful life in most cases and are often driven. What gives them their direction and final success is their fundamental value system, learned in their youth. The fine things they possess are exactly those things they may be more apt to neglect or be unaware of. It is often that way for Jack of Spades who follow the way of the thief, because of their false reasoning Challenges for them are found in the extreme boundaries of experience. The remedy for this can be ending up in jail because it is a challenge. The spiritual aspect residing in their card often does not reveal itself until they get caught and look at themselves in the mirror. It is never wise to play with fire, however it is the fire that purifies the Jack of Spades.

Relationships: The Jack of Spades fantasizes about the perfect lover or partner more than most other cards, but it is precisely this that often causes them to keep looking. In a lot of their romantic lives, this might also be the cause of the turnover rate being so high. Their idea of romance is so idealized that it may be that no single person could ever achieve it. There is no one but themselves that is responsible if they are not happy in this area. Whether or not they succeed, their success in love is always up to them. In the present lifetime the Jack of Spades must disperse some karma pertaining to love. People make commitments in relationships that teach the importance of truth and the right use of their strong sexuality. Qualities capable of getting them in trouble are their very creative, romantic and independent nature. They must be combined with knowledge and purpose.

Personality Connections: Two things should be remembered; Jack of Spades women are as strong-minded as the males and royal cards, including the King, Queen and Jack. Female Jack of Spaces find the Heart suit difficult and most often too much to handle. Generally speaking, Diamonds of both sexes do great with other people. There is a high attraction to Club males for Jack of Spades women, especially those who are more experienced and have power.

Confrontations: Their natural creative talents to deceive others and use them, with no regard for how their actions are affecting those they are stealing from, are emphasized in this case. Frankly, every one of them has this nature within them. Getting so mixed up with the bad side of their card's expression, is perhaps the reason for this. A big change however is always possible in their lives. Regardless of whether they elect to express this or not, a lot of Jack of Spades people are using mostly this side of their card. In one form or the other every Jack symbolizes initiations. The strongest representation of initiation though is the spiritual foundation. One of the aspects in the Jack of Spades person's lifetime is the transition from the lower essence of the Jacks to a higher. We can almost be sure of this; so sure that there is practically an extreme of these aspects. The Jack of Spades lowest nature is not trustworthy and always pursuing the more base side of things.
